

367 Hark, my soul

William Cowper (1731-1800)

Jacques E Cronjé (b. 1966)

$\text{♩} = 72$  Unison

1. Hark, my soul! It is the
2. "I de - li - vered thee when
3. Can a wo - man's ten - der
4. Mine is an un - chang - ing
5. Thou shalt see My glo - ry

Lord, — 'Tis thy Sav - iour, hear His word; bound, — and, when bleed - ing, healed thy wound;
care — cease to - wards the child she bare?
love, — high - er than the heights a - bove;
soon, — when the work of grace is done;

Je - sus speaks, and speaks to thee: — "O say, poor sought thee wan - d'ring, set thee right; — I al - so Yes! She may for - get - ful be, — but, be as - deep - er than the depths be - neath, — so free and part - ner of My throne shalt be; — O say, poor

sin - ner, dost thou lov - est Me?"
 turned thy dark - ness in - to light,
 sured, I will re - mem - ber thee.
 faith - ful, ov - er - com - ing death,
 sin - ner, dost thou lov - est Me?"

Je - sus speaks, and speaks to thee: "O say, poor
 sought thee wan - d'ring, set thee right; I al - so Yes! She may for - get - ful be, but, be as - deep - er than the depths be - neath, so free and Je - sus speaks, and speaks to thee: "O say, poor

sin - ner, dost thou lov - est Me?"
 turned thy dark - ness in - to light."
 sured, I will re - mem - ber thee.
 faith - ful, ov - er - com - ing death.
 sin - ner, dost thou lov - est Me?"